Queen Quail and Emu on the Menu

Instructor-Guided Practice

➡ Emu's Restaurant Game

Object of the Game:

Chef Emu has a special dinner party at his restaurant. Queen Quail and her entourage have come in to try out Chef Emu's new menu! Rack up points by getting each table's order correct. Watch out! You can lose points for getting them wrong. Try to earn 20 points before dinner service is over.

Set Up:

1. Give your student the dining room diagram, complete with Queen Quail's guests. This copy will not have the red words on it.
2. Give your student something to write their words on. Hint: Elkonin Boxes work well for students who are struggling to split up sounds or syllables!
3. Get an extra piece of paper to keep track of points. This will become a running total.
4. Place the answer key version of the dining room diagram in front of you. Make sure your student can't see this!

Game Play:

1. Your student chooses a table and takes their order.
For example: "Gentle Giraffe, may I take your order?"
2. The instructor (you) will give the order by reading the word that your student needs to spell.
For example: "Yes, I will order the word, 'music'"
3. Your student will then spell the requested word on their separate sheet of paper. If they get it right, they earn the designated points listed on the table. If they get it wrong, they lose that amount of points.
4. Check off as they are completed.
5. Gameplay continues until 20 points are reached!

Note: If you run out of tables, you can create an alternate list of words, and each table can order "dessert" to gain extra points. You may also choose to raise or lower the points required to win.

*Nonsense words are marked with an asterisk*.*
